Do not misinterpret words of Al-Quran

BERAKAS, May 29 – Claims saying that the teaching of the Al-Quran is encouraging to threaten the security of others and cause chaos to world peace are deeply disappointing.

This was said by His Majesty Sultan Haji Hassanal Bolkiah Mu'izzaddin Waddaulah, The Sultan and Yang Di-Pertuan of Brunei Darussalam at the final of the Al-Quran National Reading Competition for Adults held at the International Convention Centre.

His Majesty was referring to a short film documentary that was disseminated through websites and has caused widespread controversy. Those responsible were trying to infuse doubts on people's mind about the Al-Quran by saying that it encouraged war and killings. Some individuals tried to misinterpret the teachings by taking shorts verses of the chapters. The part of the verses they picked was not complete and ignored the rest of sentences by not including them in its entirety.

His Majesty further said that the verse should read in its entirety to understand the full meaning.

The sovereign also presented prizes to winners of the competition. Awangku Muhammad Adibulamin bin Pengiran Haji Marjuki and Dayang Nurfaezah binti Haji Emran emerged as champions of this year's Al-Quran National Reading Competition for Adults 1429/2008.

Also present at this ceremony were His Royal Highness Prince Haji Sufri Bolkiah and His Royal Highness Prince 'Abdul Mateen.

To sell and supply tobacco products is an offence

BANDAR SERI BEGAWAN, June 2 – It is an offence to sell and supply tobacco products to those aged 18 or below. Licensed retailers that sell tobacco were urged to showcase such prohibition notice.

Smoking is a risk factor that leads to heart disease and the main cause of death. Smoking increases the risk of heart disease by 25 percent to 35 percent.

These were highlighted by the Minister of Health, Pehin Dato Awang Haji Suyoi at the World No Tobacco Day held at the Raja Isteri Pengiran Anak Saleha (RIPAS) Hospital.

The Minister also said, the theme for the No Tobacco Day which reads "Tobacco-Free-Youth" is timely in our effort to give protection and awareness for youths not to get influenced by the smoking advertisements and not to get acquainted with smoking.

RIPAS Hospital, the nation's leading medical institution introduced its very own Anti Tobacco Action Team that will ensure that all visitors and patients will not be allowed to puff on that lethal cigarette anymore.

The Minister said the Tobacco

Order 2005 is not unique to Brunei. Asean countries like Singapore and Thailand have long enforced such Order progressively. European nations like UK and France have begun to enforce laws without facing negative reaction from the public. Instead, the public has applauded these moves and abided by the rules without any protest.

Effective year-end 2008, images of warning will be pasted in every cigarette pack. This has long been introduced in countries like Canada.

The "World No Tobacco Day" was observed every May 31 to remind one on the dangers of smoking.

The Deputy Minister at the Prime Minister's Office, Dato Seri Paduka Eusoff Agaki delivers a speech at the launching of Brunei ICT Career Day 2008.

BERAKAS, May 3 - Brunei Darussalam is still relying on foreign expertise when it comes to information and communications technology (ICT) as the nation has yet to produce a critical mass of local ICT talents.

These were stated by Dato Seri Paduka Eusoff Agaki, the Deputy Minister at the Prime Minister's Office at the launching of Brunei ICT Career Day 2008 at the International Convention Centre.

To date, only 50 per cent of the current workforces in the field of ICT, in the private sector, are filled by locals. For the most part, ICT projects or e-government initiatives are still very much dependent on foreign consultants.

"At present, the InfoCom Federation of Brunei is working closely with participating training centres to compile a database in order to better comprehend the various components required to boost the local ICT industry," said the deputy minister on how the federation and the career day event are relevant to the strategies and policies required to drive national development, particularly in ICT.

The career day is intended to be, first and foremost, a platform and catalyst for matching of supply and demand of the ICT professionals and industry needs in Brunei Darussalam.

The Deputy minister believed, with the correct marketing efforts and the dedication of the organisers, we will see a vibrant pool of local ICT experts being identified at this event, to meet current demands as well as future needs of the local ICT industry.

HADRAH

Hadrah is a traditional musical instrument, most common in the Malay culture where it had been passed down by our ancestors and can be claimed as successfully preserved by the current generation.

In other Malay communities in the Asia region, hadrah is also known as rampana or tar. However, hadrah is more synonym for the Brunei Malay culture.

Hadrah produces drum-like sounds where it should be played with not less than nine people. However it should be noted, the larger the group, the sound produced would be much more attractive and challenging. It is believed that the hadrah was originated from the Arabic countries.

Hadrah is closely linked into our culture as it is significantly used during weddings, during an opening of an event and highly chosen to play an important role in marking the arrival of His Majesty in various events such as during meet-the-people session in all four districts for His Majesty's birthday celebration. The sounds of hadrah which is energetic and can lift one's spirit is often used to welcome a delegation, a group of tourists at the airport and even foreign dignitaries.

As part of the efforts to preserve this traditional music, schools and mukims can be seen promoting hadrah through competitions and it is included as part of the extracurricular activities.

One encouraging factor for this traditional music to survive is there is still a strong demand for hadrah group to perform during weddings. Hence groups formed either in schools or villages constantly receive bookings for them to perform at weddings. They are also highly sought for opening of events or to welcome a delegation.

Today, along with change in time, the sounds from hadrah has also changed. Songs chosen to sing along with the sound of hadrah are sometimes those of new and old songs. Happiness on the faces of the players and even those who listens can be seen once a song has been played. With suitable songs, the beating of hadrah can enliven the ceremony. One example is when a newlywed couple will sit next to each other on the dais accompanied with the sounds of hadrah which makes the ceremony more festive and meaningful.

Hadrah is also now played by both the young and elderly where previously it was mostly played by the adults.
