BRUNEI - MUARA DISTRICT

Aerial view of Bandar Seri Begawan.

Several numbers of interesting places in the Brunei-Muara district was portrayed in the previous edition. More interesting places such as the museums, the Royal Regalia, the old market and many more will be further explored in this edition.

Two significant buildings that house historical findings and artefacts; the Brunei Museum and the Malay Technology Museum are must-go places to visit. Situated along the river banks of Brunei River at Jalan Kota Batu, the Brunei Museum showcases the origins of Brunei's culture and heritage. A walking distance away is the Malay Technology Museum where it offers an insight into the kind of tools ancient Bruneians used for their daily routine particularly for the cottage industry. The museum features goldsmith techniques, boat-making, fishing, brass smith, and woodworks, as testaments to the ingenuity which earlier generations utilised available materials and resources.

Next on the list is the Royal Regalia. Strategically located in the heart of Bandar Seri Begawan, the building was established to commemorate the 1992 Silver Jubilee of His Majesty The Sultan and Yang Di-Pertuan of Brunei Darussalam's accession to the throne. The building houses ceremonial regalia including the royal chariot, gold and silver ceremonial armoury, the traditional jewel-encrusted coronation crowns and a replica of the throne used by His Majesty on state occasions.

A few minutes away is the Silver Jubilee Monument located on the banks of the Kedayan River, another historical tribute to visit. Completed in July 2002, the park is considered as historical as it built in the same year commemorating His Majesty's Silver Jubilee of Ascension to the Throne. It is also recreational as this park is famous for jogging and walking. During weekend, this park usually becomes a venue for gathering and leisure. The main attraction here is the water fountain. Well built walking tracks are also provided for you to move easily around the park. The park had on numerous occasion become the venue for meet-the-people session (Brunei Muara District) held in conjunction with the birthday anniversary of His Majesty. Night stalls and a platform for performances would usually be set up here as part of the celebration to commemorate His Majesty's birthday.

Tamu Kianggeh (Kianggeh Market) considered as of the oldest market in the country is a place worth visiting. Situated on the banks of Kianggeh River in the capital, the market offers a variety of home-made products ranging from foodstuffs to home decorators, and a good shopping destination for some unique products. Other tamu and night food stalls of interest are located in Gadong and opposite Terrace Hotel.

Tasek Lama Recreational Park is the sole and one of the oldest recreational park located in the capital. It has a natural waterfall and lake, and features a beautiful garden of trees and flowers. For those who want to get away from the noisy traffic of the city, this park is an ideal place to spend some quiet time. It will take about 15 minutes to walk to the park from the Royal Ceremonial Hall (Lapau).

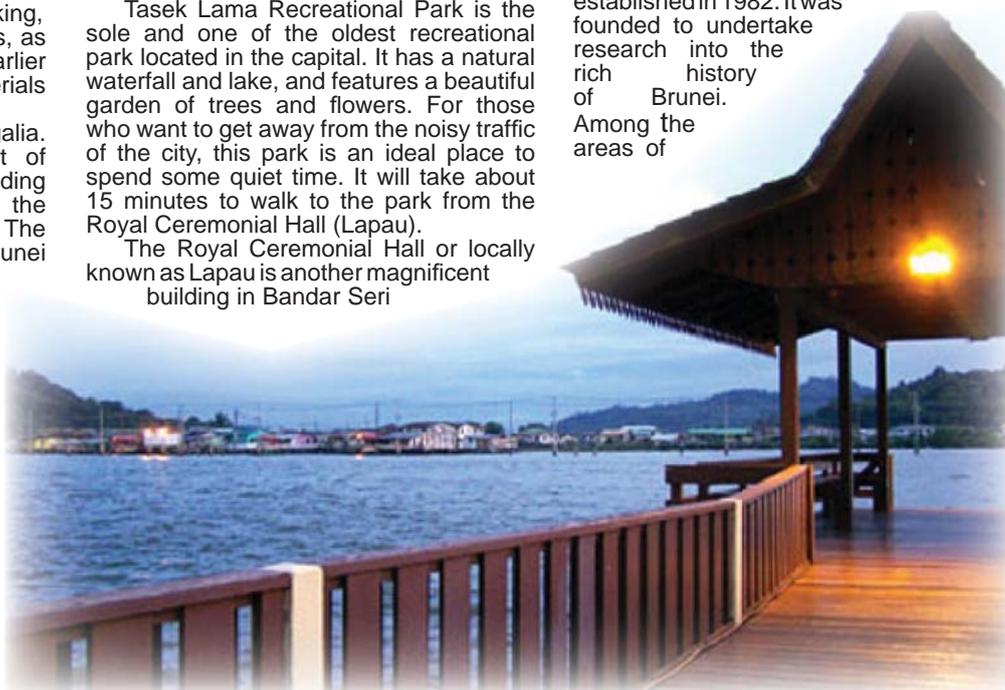

The Royal Ceremonial Hall or locally known as Lapau is another magnificent building in Bandar Seri Begawan. It is the place where the royal ceremonies were traditionally held and the venue where the present Sultan was crowned on August 1, 1968. An exquisite golden dome highlights the Lapau's interior.

Built on the banks of the Brunei River, the Arts and Handicraft Centre in Brunei-Muara district was established as a haven for the preservation of traditional Bruneian knowledge and skills and this tourist attraction is located at Kota Batu. Arts and Handicraft Centre is a place where you can find traditional, intricately designed sarongs which are woven using gold or silver threads. This is called kain songket. Hand-tooled silver jewellery and artefacts such as snake dagger or keris can be found here. A good quality of head wears for men or locally known as songkok are also made here. These arts and handcrafted items are available for sale.

Another interesting place that you can visit is the Brunei History Centre established in 1982. It was founded to undertake research into the rich history of Brunei.

special interest genealogy and history of the Sultans of Brunei and the royal family. The centre is located next to the Royal Regalia.

The Tomb of Sultan Bolkiah is another historical site worth to visit. Sultan Bolkiah was the fifth ruler of Islamic Brunei and his reign is known as the nation's golden age. Sultan Bolkiah died at sea, and his mausoleum and adjoining cemetery garden grace the banks of the Brunei River where the ancient capital is believed to have been sited, off Jalan Kota Batu, near the Brunei Museum.

Another place not to be missed is 'Bubungan Dua Belas' (House of Twelve Roofs). Built in 1906, it is one of the oldest surviving buildings in Brunei based at Kota Batu. Located along Jalan Residency, the building was formerly used as the residence for previous British Residents and High Commissioners. It is now an exhibition gallery and offers a panoramic view overlooking the famous water village, Kampong Ayer.

These are several interesting places explored in this particular edition. More will be featured in the next edition.

This issue of Explore will discuss Kiulap, a fast growing commercial area based near the heart of Bandar Seri Begawan. Kiulap which once was a quaint village is about 10 minutes away from the Brunei International Airport and a few minutes distance from the capital.

About 20 years ago, Kiulap with an area of 24, 5196 km<sup>2</sup>, was an ordinary suburb with houses, small grocery shops and a primary school. On August 24, 1984 the government opened the nation's largest referral hospital; the Raja Isteri Pengiran Anak Saleha (RIPAS Hospital) which coincidentally is located near this residential area. The village, in the early 1980's, was also identified as one of the main area to be inter-connected with the Hassanal Bolkiah Highway.

The construction of this highway turned the thick forest to asphalt road. The completion of the road project provided more access for people to reach Bandar Seri Begawan through Kiulap and this led to the development of commercial buildings.

The rise of Kiulap as a commercial area began in mid 1990's, as Gadong, a thriving commercial area, was almost fully developed.

Easy access to the area and the availability of financial institutions were the main reasons for many businesses to open up their businesses in Kiulap. Among the banks available here are the HSBC Bank, Baiduri Bank and two local Islamic banks; Tabung Amanah Islam Brunei (TAIB) and Bank Islam Brunei Darussalam (BIBD).

Currently, there are more than 250 shops available in the area. If you wish to go for shopping, Kiulap is a good choice. You can choose a wide range of items from departmental store to boutiques.

One of the local favourite shopping blocks is the Setia Kenangan Complex. The complex is one of the earliest commercial buildings developed in Kiulap.

The Setia Kenangan Complex among others, houses the local favourite departmental store that is Hua Ho Departmental Store, TAIB Bank, textile shops, electrical shops, boutiques, computer shops, travel agent, restaurant and firms like architectural and law. You can also find one of the Brunei's established companies in the traditional weaving market, Syarikat Asnika.

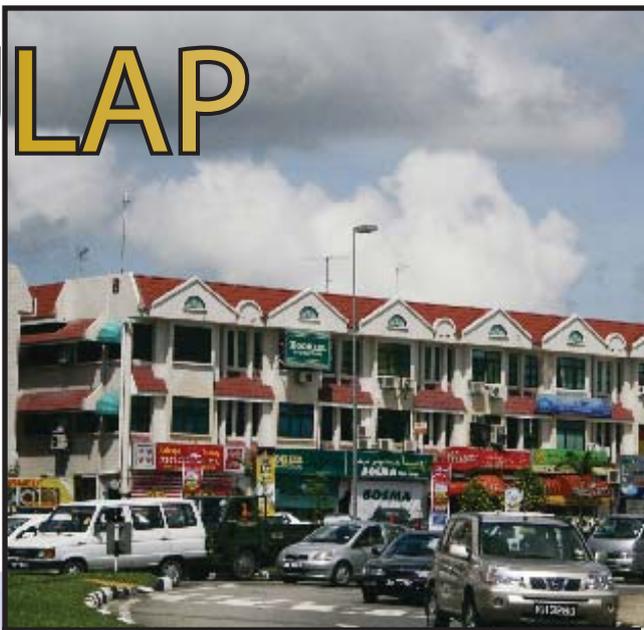

Another main attraction of Kiulap is the new Q-lap Mall. The mall features departmental store, shops, cafes, food court and cineplex.

Besides shopping, Kiulap is also the best dining spot in Brunei. More than 20 eateries outlets are available here with wide choices of dishes. You can choose from cake houses, fast food, and restaurants serving local cuisines like ambuyat; western, Indonesian, Malaysian, Chinese, Korean, Japanese, Indian, and Thai food.

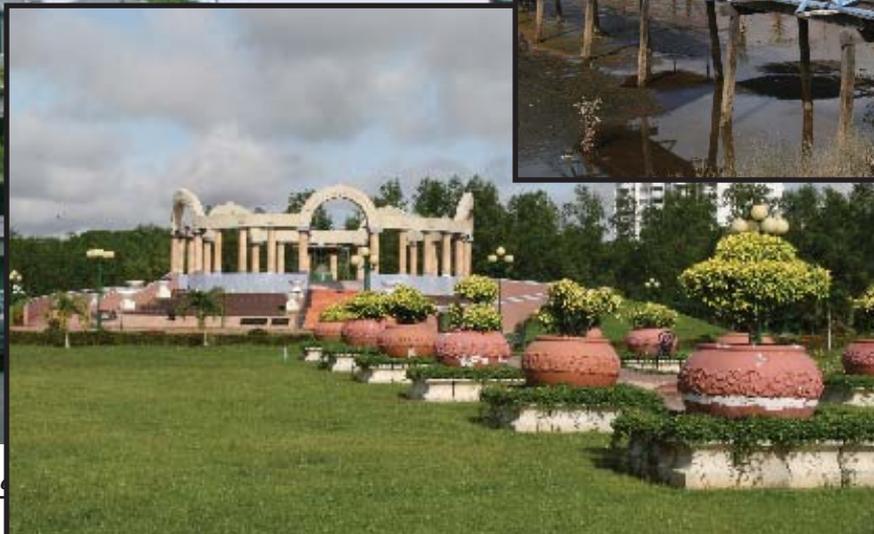

Accommodation is made easy with the recent opening of The Palm Garden Hotel. The hotel was launched on August 12, 2007. The Palm Garden Hotel also houses a fitness centre. Another plaza hotel will also be launched soon in the area.

Tired of shopping and need to burn some calories? You can stroll along the Kiulap road and enjoy the scenery of the river. About five to 10 minutes walks you can reach the Silver Jubilee Park. The park is built in conjunction with His Majesty's 25 years ascension to the throne. The Silver Jubilee is quite popular among local for jogging and strolling. Along the river, named Kedayan River, several huts were also set up to make fishing convenient.

Congkak, a game of wits

Congkak, a traditional indoor game, is one that challenges the players' wits. Quick thinking and a master in calculations are the two important characteristics that a player should have.

Inherited since generations ago, this highly esteemed game has always been a popular game particularly among women. The origin is not clearly known but some countries like Brunei Darussalam, Malaysia, Indonesia and Singapore play the same game but with different sets of rules and the name of the game itself may vary from each country.

Congkak, a perfect way to spend your leisure time is played between two players. In Brunei, congkak is also played during the night of royal ceremonials such as the Istiadat Malam Berjaga-jaga at the palace or nobility's residence.

This game requires a boat-shaped congkak board. Traditional congkak board is made of wood and has 14 small holes in two sets of seven, plus two additional medium holes which acts as storage or 'house' for players. But some congkak board may have different number of holes (usually odd quantities ranges from five to nine). Most of the congkak board used in Brunei is the seven-hole per side. The sizes of the board may also vary with the usual size board used is 80cm in length and 18cm in width.

The holes or locally known as "lubang" on the board also have its name. The small holes (14-hole) are called lubang kampung (village) or lubang anak (child) by some people. Meanwhile, the two medium holes (the store) are called lubang rumah (house). The two-set of seven holes (lubang kampung) is located side-by-side, while the house is located at each-end side of the board.

Each village will be filled in with playing seeds (normally seven pieces per hole). The seeds can be made of marbles, shells or small stones. The objective of the game is to capture more seeds than opponents.

During the first move, both players will move simultaneously. On a turn, a player chooses one of the seven holes under their control. The player removes all playing seeds from this hole, and distributes them in each hole

If the last seed moves falls into an empty hole on the current player's side, the player can capture all the seeds in the hole directly across from this one, on the opponent's side. If the opposing hole is empty, no seeds are captured.

The game ends when there are no more playing seeds in the holes (village). The player who has the most number of seeds in the lubang rumah or store wins the game.

Nowadays, as more varieties of modern games are present; various actions have been taken by respective agencies to maintain congkak as one of local favourite games particularly among the younger generation. Among the steps is by introducing the games to younger kids at kindergarten age. To attract children's interest, some of congkak's boards are made from colourful plastic materials. Congkak has also been made into an online game.

Bear in mind, the player has to skip the opponent's store (lubang rumah), but should not forget to fill in her own store (lubang rumah). If the last seed falls into an occupied hole, all the seeds are removed from the village, and the game starts from the hole. The process continues until the seeds fall into a player's store or an empty store.

If the last seed falls into player's own store, the player immediately earn another turn, which can begin at any of the seven holes under her/his control.

Prawn farming shows positive economic potential

One of the aquaculture sectors which could contribute to the local economy is through prawn farming. The sector shows positive response particularly as the quality of the production meets the international standard.

The industry started as far back as 1993 with it gradually developing to this very day. However with only a small number of entrepreneurs venturing into this industry, the domestic market for this industry received less competition. This indicates that there is plenty of room for business opportunities in this field which is yet to be explored. From 2005 to 2006, there were only 13 entrepreneurs venturing into prawn farming activities.

Continuous support and incentives provided by the government showed the massive economic potential this sector could provide as part of diversifying the economy. The Minister of the Ministry of Industry and Primary Resources, Pehin Dato Haji Awang Ahmad said on October 9, 2006 during a dialogue session with aquaculture (prawn) industry entrepreneurs, the department had implemented international aquaculture technology verification projects which have been developed to be used by local entrepreneurs in producing high quality aquaculture products, which is on par with international markets.

One of the efforts undertaken to boost production is by acquiring an aquaculture expert to help the department in improving the prawn "seeds" and improving the growth rate of the prawn.

The Minister further emphasised the potential of the fishery sector where this sector could achieve total receipts of $400 million in 2023. Out of this figure, $200 million could come from aquaculture and another $113 million from prawn breeding. It was estimated that aquaculture have a potential worth of $71 million per annum.

In the Eighth National Development Plan (8th NDP), prawn farming was recognised as an industry with massive potential as an additional area of 575 hectare for prawn farming had been allocated.

To further assist this sector, the Fisheries Department and a company from the United States of America (U.S.A), Integrated Aquaculture International (TAT) signed an agreement to stimulate shrimp farming in this country through advanced technology and niche marketing. Among the expected outcomes of the project are the increase in shrimp production to 10 meter tones per hectare per year, production of over 100 million shrimp fries per year, production of big-sized tiger prawns for the global markets, and the use of advanced technology in the culture of shrimps.

Several seminars and workshops were also organised in the effort to promote awareness, and to educate prawn fish farmers on this sector. As such, on November 29 this year, the Fisheries Department in its efforts to further develop fisheries products for the global market, organised a seminar on the strengthening of food inspection and certification for shrimp and bivalve molluscs in Brunei Darussalam with other Asean member countries.

Meanwhile, its Director, Hajah Hasnah Ibrahim, said the seminar would benefit the participants through capacity building in the implementation and upgrading of the monitoring and certification system for shrimps and bivalve molluscs.

As part of its support towards aquaculture activities, the government has provided basic accommodations such as good roads, electricity and many more.

Several sites throughout the nation had been identified as a potential breeding ground with the largest based in the Tutong District. About 47 per cent of prawn sales are contributed from those cultivated in this district. Among those in this district are the prawn hatchery in Kampong Kuala Tutong; Semaun Aquaculture Sdn Bhd cultivation site at 'Telisai Sungai Paku Fasa 1'; Usaha Asilati Sdn Bhd site at Kampong Keramat 'Telisai Fasa 1'; Dua-Dua Sdn Bhd site at Kampong Keramat 'Telisai Fasa 1'.

More sites, around 230 hectares were offered last year for interested entrepreneurs in the effort to expand local prawn farming that included 130 hectares in Tutong District cultivated by six companies; and 100 hectares in Brunei Muara District cultivated by seven companies. These sites are located in Kampong Keramat, 'Telisai Fasa 1' (92 hectares), 'Telisai Sungai Paku Fasa 1' (38 hectares), 'Pangkalan Sibabau Fasa 1' (50 hectares) and 'Pangkalan Sibabau Fasa 2' (50 hectares).

This industry is showing positive feedbacks where the total export rate in 2006 had doubled compared to 2005. In 2005, the country's shrimp export were 197.45 tonnes metric with a worth of $3.05 million and this amount increased in 2006 with 374.79 tonnes metric with a worth total of $6.05 million.

Meanwhile, the total shrimp import in 2005 were 478.33 tonnes metric with a total worth of $2.91 million and this amount showed a decrease in 2006 with only 384.55 tonnes metric shrimp were imported with a worth of $2.22 million.

The preferred species cultivated in Brunei Darussalam is the Rostris prawn which is sold to the local market through fishmongers and seafood processing factories. With the additional 97 hectares of land offered in 2006, the number of ponds rose by 100, thus leading to prawn production of 246 metric tones.

Although the figures could be seen as small compared to others, the figure had shown that there are potentials for the development and investment in the mentioned sector.

As of today, Brunei Darussalam had successfully exported its shrimps to countries like Japan, Korea and the U.S.A.

Sighting of the 'hilal'

Muslims in the country will undertake their religious obligations to fast from dawn to dusk in the month of Ramadhan. However, the process in determining when the fasting month will commence is through moon sighting or hilal.

Officials from the Ministry of Religious Affairs, the Survey Department of the Ministry of Development could be seen at various strategic places in their attempt to sight the new moon.

If the delegations are successful in sighting the new moon, fasting will commence tomorrow. However, should the attempt failed, fasting will automatically commence the day after tomorrow.

The sighting of the moon signifies the starting of the month-long from dawn to dusk fasting by Muslims as stated in the five pillars of Islam.

Various religious activities will commence and further enhanced during this holy month, particularly as this is the only month where the 'terawih' prayer can be performed. Reading of the holy Quran will be culminated with the completion of the 30 juz or chapters of the holy book towards the end of Ramadhan.

The success of completing a month long of fasting will be celebrated in the month of Syawal.
